

In my view, there is definitely too much violence on television today. I believe it negatively affects young children by influencing them to violently "act out" feelings of frustration and anger.

The FCC should take action to curb excessive violence on television. Thank you very considering my comment.